SUMMER

Summer conversation lesson

level: pre-intermediate (A2)+

class: group

time: 60 min.

skills: speaking, grammar

Warm up

1. Tell your students what the lesson topic is. As a group, students think of one adjective to describe SUMMER starting with each letter of the word (e.g. sunny, unbelievable, miraculous, marvellous, radiant).

For me, summer means...

2. Each student works on their own, preparing a list of associations: they complete the sentence 'For me, summer means...' in as many ways as possible. Set a time limit of 1 min. Then, students compare their lists and explain their choices.
3. Cut out pictures from worksheet 1 and let students choose which picture best represents their usual/this summer. Again, remember to ask for explanation. If none of the pictures work for them, encourage them to draw their own!

My summer

4. Using worksheet 2, play a summer board game. You'll need a counter for each student and a dice. Students have to answer the question on the square they arrive on. Make sure they go beyond single-sentence answers. If necessary (and appropriate), you can set a 30-sec. limit for each speaking turn.
5. Continue with a 'free' discussion about your students' plans for the summer. Focus on the correct use of will, going to and might. If necessary, explain the difference in advance and demonstrate talking about your own summer plans.

Summer story cubes

6. If you don't have story cubes, cut out cards from worksheet 3 and put them in an envelope. Students draw out two at a time and take turns to tell a summer story, always using the pictures in the cards as prompts: they can use either the literal or symbolic meaning of the item. Let their imagination run wild, the only rule is it has to be a summer story!

Cooler

7. Each student makes a summer resolution related to English. If they're short of ideas, suggest 'I'll watch three movies in English this summer.'/'I'll have at least one real conversation in English this summer.'/'I'll keep a summer diary in English.' etc. If possible, keep in touch to help them stick to the plan.
